

이용안내

공공누리

< 공공누리제도안내 공공누리유형안내

>

공공누리유형안내

제1유형 및 조건	제2유형 및 조건
제3유형 및 조건	제4유형 및 조건
유형 및 조건(Eng)

Use Terms Guide for Korea Open Government License (KOGI)

This page is a summary for an easy understanding of the General Agreement for Korea Open Government License (KOGI) and its type of registered work.

On/Off-line sharing and use

sharing and use through on/off-line possible

Indication of the source

Shall indicate the source of the work.

※ The indication of the source shall not be used to misguide a third party as it is sponsored by public institutions or as it has special relationship with public institutions.

Commercial Use Prohibition

The works shall be used only for nonprofit purposes. However, it is possible to use public works for commercial purpose with special permissions.(Related with type2, 4)

Change Prohibition

It is prohibited to modify the work, or change it to create a secondary work.

Display and Changes of the Use Terms

User must indicate its source when using KOGI's work.

The use terms of KOGL's work may be changed. However, the user can use the work without altering its purpose of use if the user used that work prior to the change of the use terms.

Use Terms Violation

Use permission is immediately terminated when the user violates the KOGL's Use Terms. If the user keeps using public works after violating the Use Terms, it establishes infringement of copyright which may charge the user criminal and/or civil charges.

Exemption Clause for Public Institutions

Public institutions do not guarantee the accuracy or the continuous service provision of public works.

Also, public institutions and its employees shall not be responsible for any kind of damage or disadvantage that may arise by using public works.

Others

Use terms for KOGL may not be applied if the user has a special permission from the public institution that possesses the work.

Users willing to utilize the intellectual property rights in addition to public institution's copyright shall get a separate permission from its service institution.

Open License Marking Criteria for Public Works

Public Notice by the Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism (Draft)

Open license marking criteria are specified as follows to prevent confusion of using it, and to promote the use of public works with clear and uniform marking criteria by allowing citizens' free use of works (referred as "public work" hereinafter), that are created, acquired and managed by government institutions, local governments and public institutions according to the Article 2, Item 3 of 「Official Information Disclosure Act」 (referred as "public institution" hereinafter), without the need of individual use permission according to Article 22 of 「Public Work's Copyright Management Instruction」 (Public Notice by the Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism No.:2010-41).

Name and Basic Marking Design

The name of 'open license for public work' is set as "Gonggongnuri", and its English term is set as "KOGL (Korea Open Government License)". Basic designs that symbolizes KOGL is as follows:

Types and Mark Design for KOGL

It is the basic liability for KOGL to indicate the copyright (source), and can impose obligations such as change prohibition, commercial use prohibition, etc. KOGL's 4 types of symbol marks and scope of the license are shown in the table.

Type and Symbol Mark	Scope of License
Type 1 Source Indication 	The user can freely use the public work regardless of its commercial use without fee, and can change it to create secondary work.
Type 2 Type 1 + Commercial Use Prohibition 	The user can freely use the public work without fee, and can change it to create secondary work, but it is not permitted to use for commercial purpose.
Type 3 Type 1 + Change Prohibition 	The user can freely use the public work regardless of its commercial use without fee, but it is not permitted to change or modify the contents of public work.
Type 4 Type 1 + Commercial Use Prohibition + Change Prohibition 	The user can freely use the public work without fee, but it is not permitted to use for commercial purpose, or to change or modify the contents of public work.

Location of KOGI Mark

Public institutions shall place the KOGI symbol mark to the proper location such as close to title or at the end of the corresponding public work so that user can recognize it. The size of the symbol mark may be different according to the public works, and it shall be the size that normal users can recognize it.

Use Terms for KOGI

Public institutions shall provide use terms such as source indication liability, use prohibited information, public institution's liability exemption, effect of use term violation, etc. with proper method (ex: hyperlink with symbol mark) when providing public works using KOGI.

Refer to Attachment for Use Terms by KOGI Types.

Public institutions may change the license terms of public works. However, users who already use prior to the change shall be allowed to use according to the license terms before change even after it is changed.

Relationship with other free licenses

KOGL can be used selectively with other free licenses such as Creative Commons License.

Attachment 1: Use Term for KOGL Type 1(Source Indication)

Korean

English

English - Korean

According to above KOGL, user can use public works freely and without fee regardless of its commercial use, and can change or modify to create secondary works when user complies with the terms provided as follows:

1. Source Indication Liability

Users who use public works shall indicate source or copyright as follows:

<Ex:> “000(public institution's name)'s public work is used according to KOGL”

The link shall be provided when online hyperlink for the source website is available.

Marking shall not be used to misguide the third party that the user is sponsored by public institution or user has a special relationship with public institutions.

2. Use Prohibited Information

Personal information that is protected by Personal Information Protection Act, Promotion for Information Network Use and Information Protection Act, etc.

Credit information protected by the Use and Protection of Credit Information Act, etc.

Military secrets protected by Military Secret Protection Act, etc.

Information that is the object of other rights such as trademark right, design right, design right or patent right, etc., or that is owned by third party's copyright.

Other information that is use prohibited information according to other laws.

3. Public Institution's Liability Exemption

Public institution does not guarantee the accuracy or continued service of public works.

Public institution and its employees do not have any liability for any kind of damage or disadvantage that may arise by using public works.

4. Effect of Use Term Violation

The use permission is automatically terminated when user violates any of the KOGL's Use Terms, and the user shall immediately stop using public works.

Attachment 2: Use Term for KOGL Type 2

Korean

English

English - Korean

According to above KOGL, user can use public works freely and without fee, and can change or modify to create secondary work when user complies with the terms provided as follows except for commercial use :

1.~4. (Same as Type 1)

Attachment 3: Use Term for KOGL Type 3

Korean

English

English - Korean

According to above KOGI, user can use public works freely and without fee regardless of its commercial use when user complies with the terms provided as follows, while the contents of public works is not modified or changed:

1.~4. (Same as Type 1)

Attachment 4: Use Term for KOGI Type 4

Korean

English

English - Korean

According to above KOGI, user can use public works freely and without fee when user complies with the terms provided as follows. However, it is prohibited to use public works for commercial purpose, or to create secondary works by changing or modifying it.

1.~4. (Same as Type 1)

문화체육관광부 "유형 및 조건(Eng)" 저작물은 "공공누리 1유형(출처표시)" 조건에 따라 이 용할 수 있습니다.

개인정보처리방침 | 행정서비스헌장 | 저작권정책 | 누리집 이용안내 | 누리집 개선의견 | 읽기전용프로그램 안내

30119 세종특별자치시 갈매로 388 정부세종청사 15동

대표전화 : (044) 203-2000 (월~금 09:00~18:00, 공휴일 제외) 팩스 : (044) 203-3447

Copyright © Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism

